At 3.30 p.m. April 14, 1933, Tsiang Yah Woo (蒋云武), 1st class detective attached to the local Bureau of Public Safety, came to this office with a prisoner named Liang Mai Kong (梁梅康) and requested assistance in effecting the arrest of an alleged communist named Yang Ah Zai (杨阿瑞). It was ascertained that the prisoner Liang Mai Kong, who was said to be a former member of the Shanghai Provincial Committee of the Communist Youth League, was arrested in Mung Koo Road, Chapei, on April 13. This prisoner subsequently implicated a man named Yang Ah Zai as being a member of the Western District Committee of the C.Y.L. and stated that he resided in the upstairs portion of No. 135 Thorburn Road. The address in question was visited by D.S. Coyne, C.D.C. 216 (Yulin Road Station), D.S.I. Everest, C.D.C. 107 and Clerk Zung Zoong (Special Branch), accompanied by the Public Safety Bureau representative and the prisoner Liang Mai Kong at 4.15 p.m. April 14 when it was found that the wanted man had left Shanghai for Tsungming in January of this year and had not been seen since.
